

MiniCourt Basketball | “Unplugged 3D Mini-Playgrounds For Gaming”

Welcome To the Era of “living notebooks”

No Batteries Required...
Only A Little Imagination

1987

2025

“First created more than forty years ago during study hall at Margaret Spellacy Jr. High school in Cleveland when I was a Cavs basketball-crazed, yet bored junior high student, I drew a basketball court on a scrap sheet of paper and imagined making shots like ‘Bingo’ Smith, layups like Austin Carr and game-winners like Dick Snyder.

...it became a wildly popular “old school” mini-basketball game that’s the heart of MiniCourts.”

MiniCourt Basketball: The Mini-Basketball Game

Spiral Notebooks designed to entertain and educate

...from the vision of a teenaged-Cavs fan several decades ago, a totally new 3-dimension for present and future Playground/College/NBA fans game experiences - the unique opportunity to...

“Play” on actual mini-courts- More realistic than online video games & hours of fun...on paper

“Be a player” on any School/College/NBA team- Pass & shoot and dunk like LeBron...on paper

No Internet. No batteries. No control sticks. No additional parts. No game boards or complex assembly needed. It’s a picture. It’s Fun. FUN! Hours of fun with this “old school” self-contained, mini-basketball game using only a scrap piece of paper and some imagination to play + a little luck + skill to win. Reading, Riting, Rithmatic, First! – scroll, swipe, click, dream, Create...

